

The following is a supposed to be a feature story/profile. Please show me how you would edit for AP style and content. Go fight win!

Born June 27 2000, Grace Quintilla Solomon goes to school, social events, and home like any other teenager. Looking from an outside perspective, Grace appears to have an orderly lifestyle.

From an outside view, Grace Solomon seems like any other average teenager. School, friends, family and all other aspects that complete a 14 year old life, but one look into her lifestyle and you realize she's very different.

Outside of school, Solomon dreams of a life away from her current everyday existence. Somewhere far from her family and all the worries of her past; possibly even out of the country. With a wishful mind, Solomon hopes to one day find and have a family and live somewhere where she feels comfortable in her own skin.

"I see myself living somewhere completely different, maybe out of the country. Where my mother can't judge me."

Starting in 6th grade, Solomon gradually started to feel more and more distant from her family. Since then, Solomon, slowly but surely, has started to feel isolated in her own home and very frequently confides to her room for peace.

"I don't spend any time with my parents," Solomon said.

Along with her parents, Solomon's brother Grant is just as detached from Solomon as the rest of her family.